THE EMPIRE MOURNS ITS DEAD

MILLIONS PAY TRIBUTE TO THE FALLEN

MEMORIES OF 1914-18

TO-DAY'S CEREMONY AT THE
HONG KONG CENOTAPH

To-day, throughout all parts of the British Empire, indeed the world, at different times but at the same hour, the prayers and thoughts of millions of widows, daughters, mothers, fathers, brothers and sisters were crowded into those awful and beautiful Two Minutes of Silence which have been set aside for the remembrance of those Dear Ones who fell fighting pro patria gloria.

The minds of thousands of ex-servicemen will travel back to-day to the horror and glory of the world's greatest drama, played on the battlefields of France. They will remember comrades, vows, and wonderful deeds.

In remembering them, let us recall their pledge, that the War in which they fought was a war to end war.

THE SILENCE IN HONG KONG

And though, perchance in weakness we have cried,
Yet, could we but know that somewhere on this Day,
They, too, rejoice with us, then would we say,
"Give rein to Joy, let Grief give place to Pride;
For that is how they would wish us to decide."

Eleven years have rolled by and yet deep down in our hearts we cannot forget. The memory of the dear ones who so unselfishly gave up their lives for us must have been forcibly brought home to those who attended the ceremony at the Cenotaph this morning.

The sight of men in khaki and of the sailors in white and also the men in multi still bearing traces of that grim tragedy of modern warfare could not fail to stir us, and the solemnity of the ceremony, together with the far away echo of the "Last Post," was most affecting and moving. The gathering, too, could not but be touched by these lines of John McCrae—

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row

The scene at the Cenotaph was indeed a very impressive one. By 10.45 the following bodies of men took up their positions in the order given:—Royal Navy, Royal Marines, Royal Air Force, Army Detachments, Band, Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, Representative parties from foreign navies (late allies), Consular services party, representative party of China Const Officers' Guild, British Legion, Ex-Active Service Men's Association, Royal Marines Old Comrades' Association, Guards Association, St. John Ambulance Brigade, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, and Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes. The Band of the 1st Somerset Light Infantry played during the ceremony. The R.A. battery, under the command of an Officer in charge of a subsection, took up a position on the Murray Parade ground.

His Excellency the Governor then arrived and took up a position opposite the Cenotaph and behind him were the senior Naval, Military and Air Force Officers, thus: H.E. the General Officer Commanding, one pace behind the Governor, and two paces behind the G.O.C. stood the Senior Air Officer, the G.S.O. 1, and the Commodore. Behind them were the A.D.C.'s to the G.O.C. and Governor, and the Commodore's Secretary. Others who stood opposite the Cenotaph were the Hon. Members of the Executive and Legislative Councils.

THE LAST POST

His Excellency the Governor arrived at 10.55, when the troops were called to attention and the Band played "God Save the King." Three pipers of the B.K.V.D.C. played the lament "Flowers of the Forest." Following this Buglers of the 1st Somerset Light Infantry sounded the "Last Post." Officers saluted while the band playing

At 11 a.m., one gun posted on Murray Parade ground fired a blank round to mark the beginning of the two minutes' silence, which was broken by another blank round. Officers did not salute or remove their head-dress during the silence.

After the second gun, the Band of the 1st Somerset Light Infantry sounded the "Reveille," after which the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung by the whole assembly.

FOREIGN WREATHS

Wreaths were then laid in the following order: By H.E. the Governor, H.E. the G.O.C., the Commodore, the Senior Air Officer, representatives of foreign Navies and several others.

H.E. the Governor departed at 11.08 a.m., the Band of the 1st Somerset Light Infantry playing "God Save the King," which brought the ceremony to an end.

The opportunity was also taken by the G.O.C. to present Long Service medals to Sergeant Robson, of the Armoured Car Company of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, immediately before the Arrival of His Excellency the Governor, for the ceremony proper. Gar. Nadir Khan of the Hong Kong S.R.A. also received a medal.

Ex-Service Dinner

The annual Armistice Day dinner of ex-Active Service men will be given to-night at the Volunteers' Headquarters.

This year for the first time the British Legion are associating with the Ex-Active Service Men's Association, and the dinner is being run jointly by these two organizations.

We understand that H.E. the Governor, H.E. the General Officer Commanding the Troops, His Honour the Chief Justice, the Hon. The Colonial Secretary, together with many other prominent persons, have signified their intention of being present, and the Committee anticipate that the numbers attending will exceed those of previous years.

CATHEDRAL SERVICE

Governor Attends Impressive Service

The first Armistice Day observance this morning was the Commemorative Service which was held in St. John's Cathedral, starting at 9.45 a.m.

There was a very large congregation which included His Excellency the Governor (Sir Cecil Clementi, K.C.M.G.) who was accompanied by Capt. Sillitoe, R.M., A.D.C., Lady Clementi, accompanied by Capt. A. J. L. Whyte, His Excellency the General Officer Commanding (Major-General J. W. Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.), accompanied by Lt. Cameron, A.D.C., the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., Colonial Secretary, Commodore R. A. S. Hill, R.N., accompanied by the Naval Secretary, the members of the Executive and Legislative Councils.

WARS PRIVATE AND PUBLIC

WHEN THEY ARE LEGAL AND ILLEGAL

GEN. SMUTS' LECTURE

London, Yesterday.

The need of a general convention supplementary to the peace pact was urged by General Smuts at a Rhodes Memorial Lecture at Rhodes House, Oxford, when he suggested that the convention should clearly define private and public wars, and place the aggressor of a private war in the position of an outlaw, depriving him of all rights under international law.

General Smuts defined a private war as one waged by a party for its own national purposes, and a public war one in which a state was involved not for its own individual ends, but for police purposes with others in pursuance of public policy under an instrument like the League Covenant. He contended that the peace pact only covered private war.—Reuter.

Freedom of the Seas

The convention would solve the one great outstanding British-American problem, namely, the question of the freedom of the seas. If the aggressor were made to forfeit all the rights of commercial relations while engaged in a private war, the question of neutral rights will be revolutionised and the doctrine of the freedom of the seas cease to be of practical importance.

An even more important result of the proposed convention would be to make economic sanctions under Article 16 of the League Covenant workable with the co-operation of the United States, since an outlaw under the peace pact would generally be identical with an aggressor boycotted for flouting the unanimous decision of the League.

He further suggested that "the aggressor" might be defined by a conference of all the Powers interested in the area where danger was threatened on similar lines to the conference provided for by the Pacific Ocean Pact at Washington in 1921.—Reuter.

PREMIER'S TRIBUTE TO HIS DAUGHTER

OUR SENTIMENTAL LEANING
TOWARDS THE NAVY

THE AMERICAN MIND

London, Yesterday.

"I could not have done the work I did; I could not have carried through the duties placed upon me; I could not have got hold of the American mind, had it not been for her," was the Prime Minister's striking tribute to his daughter Isabel, when welcomed home by the National Labour Club.

Mr. MacDonald, in his speech, said that when he told Americans that Britons have inherited a sentimental leaning in regard to their Navy, he was very timorous regarding the effect, but he received letters next day expressing thanks for explaining the point. That means that the American people are understanding us.—Reuter.

SERB. DEFENDS HIS CITY

Belgrade, Yesterday.

Owing to the insistence of the Italian Minister for punishment, the Serbian Radolko Slovitich has been sentenced to a month's imprisonment and his companion to five days, although police investigation whereupon Radolko Slovitich, a provoked trouble-maker, was provoked to the trouble. The Italians are dissatisfied at the sentences and await instructions from Rome.

WATCHMAN SHOT AT KOWLOON

"KID" MARRIOTT INVOLVED IN ACCIDENT

VICTIM IN HOSPITAL

Mr. H. ("Kid") Marriott, sergeant of police in the Hong Kong & Whampoa Dock Co.'s main establishment at Hung Hom, Kowloon, was involved in what has been reported to the Police as an accidental shooting in the Dock premises last evening when Jager Singh, a Sikh watchman, 55 years of age, was shot in the stomach.

The Indian was transferred from Kowloon Hospital, whence he had been removed in the motor ambulance, to the Government Civil Hospital. No change had taken place in his condition this morning. It was learned on inquiry by a "China Mail" representative.

Mr. Marriott was formerly with the Royal Naval Dockyard Police when he lived in Wanchai. In the sensational encounter between Police and armed robbers at bay in Gresson Street in 1918 (in which several Police and passers-by were killed) one of the desperadoes eluded his pursuers until he passed Mr. Marriott's house and was shot down by Mr. Marriott. For this service, he received suitable recognition from the authorities at a public parade. After leaving the Naval Yard, Mr. Marriott joined the Whampoa Dock Co.

In his younger days, "Kid" Marriott was a professional boxing champion of the Colony in the lighter divisions. He has not given up the sport and continues to act as an instructor and trainer to the delight of a large circle of friends and admirers.

and the Serbian retorted "In that case Rome also is a filthy place." Cassoni then hit the Serbian in the face, and the latter gave a black eye, knocking him down. Cassoni had to be carried out of the cabaret.—Reuter.

HOPELESS PLIGHT DISCLOSED

Financial Muddle Of Kwangtung

THE BURDEN OF TAXATION

Canton, Saturday.

If the war is to last much longer, it will put Kwangtung in a hopeless financial plight. The people are now taxed in a degree that is unheard of. There is hardly a commodity, which is not taxed and farmed out to merchants. Tooth brushes, lichee fruit, and chicken and pork and cattle, etc. are items of taxation.

How long the people will stand for this burden without proportionate compensation in the way of liberty and protection, the future will unfold.

John Chinaman is a patient, suffering animal; but when he starts to kick, then there is going to be trouble.

The Lack of Funds

It will be recalled that Mr. Fan Ki-mo, the Finance Commissioner, during the last fortnight cabled his resignation to the Finance Ministry on more than one occasion, and that the Ministry refused to sanction it.

It is necessary to explain that, since February, 1928, the revenues of the Kwangtung province have been definitely divided into national and provincial revenues. The national revenues are collected by offices under the direct control of the Central Government; the money is not, however, remitted to Nanking, but retained in the province to defray the expenditure of the Navy, Army, the Foreign Affairs Department, and the Chungsans University.

Provincial Revenues

The provincial revenues are collected by the Canton Government for the sole use of the province; that is, theoretically, but in reality are drawn upon by the Central Government in case of pressing military needs, which occur frequently, and as has happened in the present trouble.

Estimated Annual Provincial Revenues

Taxes on fields	$3,000,000
Likin	1,300,000
Various kinds of taxes	4,800,000
Gambling	12,000,000
Mining, fertilizer, registration fees, etc.	6,895,000
Total	$27,895,000

or monthly 2,333,000

Estimated Annual National Revenues
Salt	$10,000,000
Stamp duties	2,000,000
Likin transit pass	8,000,000
Sulphur, salt-petre, etc.	500,000
Opium prevention	700,000
Tobacco & wine	4,000,000
Rolled tobacco	4,000,000
Total	$31,600,000

or Monthly 2,633,000

Present monthly expenditure
Military expenses	$2,800,000
Navy	240,000
General Lu Woon-jin	240,000
Kwangsi	600,000
General Yang Teng-fai	100,000
Kwangsi	60,000
Other expenses	60,000
Total	$3,800,000

Monthly Payments

Public Loans Liquidation	$1,198,000
Civil Service	1,627,000
Monthly	$2,825,000

The sum fixed by the Central Government is $2,400,000 a month.

In the provincial monthly revenues as against the monthly expenditure, there is seen a deficit of $490,000, but the deficit of the national expenditure as against the receipts, taken on a monthly basis, is $1,167,000.

Unable to Pay

Since the National Government does not remit any funds to Kwangtung, it falls upon this province to make good at the expense of the provincial revenues. This explains the reason why the Kwangtung Government is unable to pay its way this month, and also why the Finance Commissioner is having sleepless nights, as he is being pressed both by the military and civil officials for funds, which he has not enough in the Treasury to meet.

The Finance Department has already borrowed from the Central Bank a sum of $4,000,000 and also other sums from merchants secured on advanced taxes. On the other hand, the Central Government is indebted to the Provincial Government for a sum of $21,000,000, with no indication of repayment in the near future.—Canton News Agency.

AS A COMRADE MEETING COMRADES

PRINCE WALES ON THE MOTIVES OF BRAVE DEEDS

GREETING FROM THE KING

London, Yesterday.

As a comrade greeting comrades, the Prince of Wales received his V.C. guests at the House of Lords, who, wearing lounge suits and their medals, were cheered by an enormous crowd outside St. Stephens. All were met on a common level, and there were several unofficial reunions between guests and ex-servicemen waiters.

The Prince, in proposing the guests' health, received a storm of cheering. He said it was not a national habit to invite men to dinner to tell them how brave they were, so it was assumed that they did their heroic deeds from motives of self-preservation or because they noticed someone on the staff watching. "I suggest this because every V.C. I talked to always dishes up this sort of explanation."

Referring to the titles of other decorations the Prince of Wales suggested that the title "most enviable" was the order of the Victoria Cross.

A message of greeting was received from the King, who, accompanied by the Queen, attended a performance of "The Second Mrs. Fraser" at the Haymarket Theatre.—Reuter.

Historic Occasion

Rugby, Saturday.

To-night's dinner in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords, when the Prince of Wales will preside over a gathering of 320 holders of the Victoria Cross, will be an historic occasion, for it will be the largest gathering of V.C.'s ever held. There are 450 surviving holders of the decoration, and although many have come from overseas, those not attending the dinner are mainly absent through inability to make the long journey to England from the Dominions and Colonies. In Australia, for instance, 45 holders of the Victoria Cross unable to come are being entertained in the Commonwealth by Governor-General Lord Stonehaven and the State Governors.

The remarkable reunion results from a desire to be the guests of the Prince of Wales, and to help in a national appeal for ex-servicemen, and widows and dependants of ex-servicemen, who may be in necessitous circumstances.

Invitations are extended to all holders of the Victoria Cross, and not only those who won the decoration in the Great War. Thus Col. Reynolds, aged 86, and Private Williams, aged 81, who won the Victoria Cross at Rorke's Drift, South Africa, in 1879, and General Sir Reginald Hart, who won his in the Zulu Campaign of the same year, and is now 81, will be present. The youngest will be Private Ricketts from Newfoundland, who by giving the wrong age managed to enter the army at the age of fifteen, and won the V.C. when he was 17.

Every guest present will have performed some act of astounding courage, initiative, or self-sacrifice, on land or sea or in air, and all the Services will be represented in the toast list. Thus when the Prince proposes the guests, those who will respond will be Lieut.-Commander Auten on behalf of Naval V.C.'s, Sergeant Spackman for Army V.C.'s, Colonel Bishop for Airman V.C.'s, and Colonel Fearkes of Canada for Overseas V.C.'s. Immense public interest is being taken in the event.—British Wireless Service.

CHARITY FAIRAnnual Event Of The Canossian Institute

OPENED BY MRS. CREASY

The annual two-day's Charity Fair of the Canossian Institute was opened at the Italian Convent, Caine Road, at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, and throughout the day large numbers visited the Convent and enjoyed the fun of the fair until evening, when it was closed to re-open yesterday and continue all day.

The opening ceremony was performed by Mrs. H. T. Creasy, wife of the Hon. Director of Public Works, in the presence of a large gathering, which included His Lordship, Bishop H. Valtorta, D.D. On arrival, Mrs. Creasy was met at the main Convent gate by the Mother Superior and conducted through the fair grounds to a spacious hall on the ground floor of the west wing of the large Convent building to the principal stalls.

Cutting the Ribbon

Stretched across the entrance to the hall was a length of white ribbon and just outside stood a little girl dressed in white with a pair of scissors on a tray. When Mrs. Creasy approached, the little girl courted prettily and offered the scissors. Taking this from the tray, Mrs. Creasy severed the ribbon in the centre and the entire gathering then entered the hall.

Here, after commenting on the pretty appearance of the various stalls, Mrs. Creasy addressed the gathering. She said that she regarded it as an honour to have been asked to open the Italian Convent Bazaar. The Mother Superior, she said, she had known on paper for five years, and she was happy to say that during that time had worked very splendidly together, and she had derived much pleasure from it.

The excellent work done by the Canossian Institute was well-known to all, not only here but in many other places. Where ever one went one always heard the Italian Convent spoken of very highly. The nuns deserved every assistance in their good work, and Mrs. Creasy asked those present to spend freely at the Fair.

Money for Charity

She added that it was a great pity that the Ministering Children's League were not holding their Fair this year, because every year she had received many pretty and useful things from the Mother Superior to sell to raise money for charity.

The M.C.L. Mrs. Creasy continued, annually made a contribution of $1,000 to the good work of the Italian Convent, and she sincerely hoped that this year, in spite of the fact that they were not holding a Fair—the various branches are working hard in other directions to raise money—the Italian Convent would receive their contribution as usual.

She had great pleasure in declaring the Fair open.

The Stalls

The principal stalls in the hall were the "Toyland," a veritable Children's Paradise choked full of pretty playthings; the Bargain Stall at which many useful articles suitable for Christmas presents were all offered; and one could make a choice; and the Embroidery Department, which was of special interest to the ladies, for here were to be found hand-made lingerie of every description and dainty garments made to please all tastes and all purses.

Side Shows

On the grounds outside the hall were various side shows at which much amusement could be had throwing darts or playing other games of chance. The outlay was small, only ten cents at the most, but the prizes were attractive and tempting, and all worth more than the money spent in trying to get them.

The St. Louis Band was in attendance on both days.

There were over 9,000 English companies registered last year, with an aggregate capital of £221,026, 628.

SALE OF WORKIn Aid Of Kowloon Union
Church Women's Guild

ATTRACTIVE STALLS

Owing to the regrettable indisposition of Mrs. J. Horace Johnson, wife of the Minister of the Union Church, Kowloon, the opening ceremony of the Annual Sale of Work of the Women's Guild was performed on Saturday by Mrs. J. Durran, wife of Dr. J. Durran of Kowloon.

Bedecked with flags and taperings, the Union Church and its grounds were the centre of attraction to many people of the Colony, who thronged them in order to see the beautiful work spread out at the varied stalls.

The ground next the Church was the children's playground, and soon drew their patronage, and Mr. J. Jenner, with a fake red nose behind "Sally" kept the children and himself busy for quite a time.

Tables were neatly laid and arranged in the Church where tea was served at 50 cents.

Prior to declaring the sale open, Mrs. D. Harvey, President of the Women's Guild, welcomed the gathering in the course of a brief address, in which she mentioned how sorry they were not to have Mrs. Johnson to open the sale for them. All the same, they were very pleased to have Mrs. Durran to do the pleasant duty, and thanked her very much. It was, after all, for a worthy cause that the sale of work was held, (the Church and Manse Building and Furnishing Fund), and she asked those present to give their best support.

"Stuffy Meetings"

The Rev. J. Horace Johnson, B.A., then addressed the gathering, and said they were very grateful to Mrs. Durran for so kindly accepting the position in so short a time of notice and doing it so gracefully. Had Mrs. Johnson been able to come she would have made an appeal to all the ladies to join the chatty Tuesday weekly sewing meetings. They were very different from the "stuffy mothers' meeting," he added.

Concluding, Mr. Johnson thanked all those who had helped to make the afternoon so enjoyable, and asked the gathering to give Mrs. Durran a hearty vote of thanks. Prolonged applause then welcomed Mrs. Durran, who, in a brief speech, remarked that she was very pleased to have been called upon to open the afternoon's sale, since it was for such a deserving cause. The sale was then declared open.

Bouquet Presentation

At the conclusion of the speech, little Miss Winnie Ingram handed Mrs. Durran a lovely bouquet of flowers.

The thanks of the Church are due to Mr. Jenner, of the Kowloon Dock, who was solely responsible for the decorations.

The Officials

The officials were: President, Mrs. D. Harvey; Hon. Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Craig.

The following had charge of the Stalls: White Elephant (Young People's Society)—Mrs. Othen, Miss Adams and Miss E. Layton; Fancy Goods—Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Dick, Mrs. Proven; British Toys—Mrs. Gow, and Miss R. Ingram; One Dollar Stall—Mrs. Craig, and Mrs. Ingram; Refreshments—Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs. McIntosh; Sweets Stall—Mrs. Johnston, and Mrs. Watson; Bran Tub—Mrs. Spittles, Mrs. Duncan and Miss H. Eastman; Coconut Shy and "Hitum Sally"—Messrs. D. Lyon, J. Jenner, A. Read, Kerla and H. Layton.

CHINESE WEDDING

Relative of Sir Robert Ho Tung Married
TO MISS MINNIE LEE

The wedding was solemnised at St. John's Cathedral, at 3 p.m., on Saturday, of Miss Minnie Lee, fifth daughter of the late Mr. Lee Kan-tung and Mrs. Lee Kan-tung, and Mr. Wong Sik-chung, fourth son of Mr. Wong Kam-fuk, J.P., who is a brother-in-law of Sir Robert Ho Tung, member of the District Watch Committee and other public bodies, patron of the Chinese Recreation Club, compradore of the Hong Kong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Co.

The Rev. H. V. Koop officiated, and there was a large attendance of the relatives and friends of the parties at the Cathedral.

The Bride's Dress

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Thomas Lee, was charmingly attired in a long gown of ivory satin charmeuse and ivory lace, trimmed with a trail of orange blossom, and a short veil. Her bouquet was of cosmos anemone and maidenhair fern.

She was attended by her sisters, the Misses Rose and May Lee, Miss Beatrice Choo and Miss Florence Lim, as bridesmaids, and the Misses Eileen Lee, and Madeline and Gladys Cheung as flower girls, whilst Master Lawrence Lee was page.

The bridesmaids' dresses were of mauve and yellow georgette, and silk net, whilst the flower girls wore primrose yellow satin dresses. Master Lee's costume was of mauve satin.

Flowers carried by the bridesmaids were gladioli in sheafs, and the flower girls had baskets of white roses.

A Chinese Gown

Mrs. Lee Kan-tung, the bride's mother, wore a picturesque Chinese ceremonial gown, brightly coloured and richly embroidered in gold.

The duties of best man were carried out by Dr. K. W. Chuan, whilst Mr. C. K. Kwok was the groomsmen.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden, a large number of guests being present.

The toast to the bride and bridegroom was proposed by the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., LL.D., who said:

I seem to be in some demand as what the Chinese call Lucky Old Man at weddings lately! (Laughter.)

Last Saturday I had the pleasure of proposing the principal toast at the wedding of a good friend, and to-day I am performing the same pleasing duty at the wedding of a son of an equally good and much older friend. (Hear, hear.) If I charged a fee for the job, I should be doing a fairly good business at this time of the year, having within the last few days had, on account of previous engagements, to decline two similar invitations, much to my regret. (Laughter.)

But, anyhow, I would have waived the fee for this occasion, for the pleasure it gives me is sufficient recompense. (Applause.)

Chimp of the Old Block

Though I do not know the bridegroom intimately myself, those who do tell me that he is a wonderfully good business man—in fact, a chimp of the old block. (Applause.) I have known the old block for about 35 years. When I was a young man, I, in common with other youngsters, looked up to him with great admiration not unmixed with a bit of awe, for, although he has a large heart—a heart as big as his head—he has always a habit of saying what he thinks in a telling way. Those feelings still remain with me. (Applause.)

I do not know whether the bridegroom is as "telling" in his talk as his father, but he has certainly inherited his old man's disarming and winning smile. I have a shrewd idea that that smile of his has had much to do with his winning the charming lady now standing by his side! (Laughter and Applause.)

The bride I have known from the time when she was a pupil at St. Paul's Girls' School. In those days she was a vivacious, pretty little girl, popular among all in or outside her school. I remember once when an M.G.L. sale was on at Government House, I saw from a distance a crowd of young men surrounding something, jostling and elbowing each other in order to get to that something.

Frantic Struggle

On my getting near to the scene I saw that the object of their frantic struggle was little Miss Minnie Lee, looking tantalisingly charming in a dress that transformed her into a gay butterfly, and with a dainty basket of flowers of variegated hues hanging round her neck.

One look at her gave me the reason why those young fellows were so eager to buy her wares. I did not blame them. Old as I was, I bought a flower from her, though I had to wait quite five minutes before I could attract her attention. (Laughter.)

As I have said, I do not know the bridegroom very well, but of one thing I am pretty sure, and that is that he must possess a power of attraction to an unusual degree.

The Winsome Bride

I know that there must have been a dozen young fellows eager to throw themselves and their fortune at the dainty feet of pretty, winsome Miss Minnie Lee; but the fact that she has given her heart to Mr. Wong Sik-chung speaks volumes for the young man's good qualities. (Applause.)

It is an ideal match, and I know that they will be happy for ever—Ladies and gentlemen, I now ask you to drink with me to the good health and long life of Mr. and Mrs. Wong Sik-chung. (Loud Applause.)

Later Mr. and Mrs. Wong Sik-chung left for their honeymoon which will be spent travelling in Japan, and later to Shanghai.

Pretty Ceremony

MR. KWOK CHAN AND MISS GERTRUDE CHAN

Two other well-known Chinese families were united by the bonds of matrimony on Saturday when Mr. Kwok Chan, second son of Mr. Kwok Siu-lau, the well-known philanthropist, married Miss Gertrude S. W. Chan, eldest daughter of Mr. Chan Lim-pak.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bridegroom, Marlborough, 97-99 Robinson Road, and was attended by a large number of friends. Among those present being H.E. Sir Cecil and Lady Clementi, Major-General J. W. Sandilands, Officer Commanding the Troops, and several other distinguished guests.

The bride was charmingly attired in white satin with silver embroidery and carried a bouquet of white lilies of the valley, with maidenhair fern. She was attended by three bridesmaids—Misses Pearl Chow, Agnes Chan and Margaret Chan, who were dressed in light pink net lined with satin and trimmed with silver. They carried bouquets of pink flowers. The flower girl was Miss Chan.

Mr. Kwok Yan, brother to the bridegroom officiated as best man. The bridal pair are not spending their honeymoon out of the Colony on account of pressure of business.

PACIFIC RELATIONS

Japanese Conference Comes To A Close

Kyoto, Saturday.—The Third Biennial Conference upon Pacific Relations closed to-day in a very cordial atmosphere.

At the closing luncheon the visiting delegates expressed satisfaction over the result of the frank discussions of not only academic matters but delicate political matters, and also of the furtherance of friendship by daily personal conferences.

A souvenir was presented by the foreign delegations to the Japanese, as appreciation of their hospitality. Despite the friendly atmosphere created among the Chinese and Japanese delegations in the last few days, the proposal to establish a board of conciliation and investigation of Sino-Japanese relations was finally abortive, because the matter requires a further conference, while the present conference is terminating to-day. It was announced that the next conference will be held in China in 1931.

DARING PIRACY

Steamer Mastered By Disguised "Passengers"

Shanghai, Saturday.
The China Merchants' s.s.
"Kwangchi," with a large number of passengers and a full cargo, when returning to Shanghai from Wenchow, was pirated on Wednesday last, and released on Friday.

From the meagre details available it appears that the pirates, following the established methods of piracy, boarded the vessel disguised as passengers. They suddenly overwhelmed the crew, loot-ing the vessel.

The officers are safe, although all money and clothing was robbed. One passenger was wounded. The ship is little damaged.—

THE CIVIL WAR

Situation Said To Be Satisfactory

HEAVY FIGHTING

Shanghai Saturday.
Mr. Yen Hsi-shan, director of the Kuomintang Propaganda Bureau, in a Press interview, said that the situation at the front was satisfactory and that within a few days a proper solution of the present trouble would be found.

Mr. Yen also declared that Yen Hsi-shan had sent a circular telegram in which he announced his acceptance of the post of Deputy Generalissimo and his submission to the Central Government to the last.

The "Wu-Han" Plane

On Nov. 5, Yen Hsi-shan assumed the post of Deputy Generalissimo of the Army, Navy, and Air Forces. The ceremony took place in the Provincial Government Office.

General Ho Ying-ching supervised the taking of the oath, which was very impressive.

General Yang Peng-yin will assist at the Headquarters of the Deputy Generalissimo. Ho Ying-ching leaves for Nanking on Monday.

Chang Chi-chung, the officer in charge of the Wuhan advanced headquarters, left with General Chang Kai-shek on the plane "Wuhan" to visit President Chiang Kai-shek at Kaileng in Honan. After seeing the President, the two Changs will proceed to Taiyuan.

Yen Hsi-shan received numerous telegrams congratulating him on his assumption to office, including one from General Chang Hsi-shan expressing the hope that Yen's acceptance would lead to an early peaceful settlement.

Hand Grenades

Shanghai Saturday.
A message from Chengchow states that on the night of Nov. 6, General Sun Liang-cheng's troops advanced with big swords and hand grenades, hoping to surprise the Nationalists. Before reaching the lines, they were attacked by outposts, resulting in hand to hand fighting, with many casualties on both sides.

This kind of fighting involving numerous sacrifices of lives is not of common occurrence, and it is said that this has been resorted to by General Sun on account of shortage of ammunition of his troops.

Japanese Minister

Peking, Saturday.
The Japanese Minister left Peking on Nov. 8 for an inspection of Manchuria. He will proceed to Nanking about Nov. 20 to interview Dr. C. T. Wang, with regard to the Sino-Japanese Commercial Treaty. It is understood that a clause will be added for the prevention of boycotts.

EARLIER NEWS

National Troops Plan to Drive the Enemy

Hankow, Saturday.
General Sun's troops who are directly in front of the western sector of the Lungshai battle line are still close to Sunyang, and who do not seem to have the idea of retreating, have now been surrounded. The 5th National army of General Tang Seng-chi on the East is defending Yungteh and Kwangwu on the west of Fanchang and Kungshien. It is hoped to settle Sunyang at an early date, when the National troops will be able to drive the enemy before them and advance in the west without any anxieties with regard to their rear.

The Right Wing

On the right wing, about Teng Feng and Linque, is the main body of General Wei Yih-sen, General Wei's headquarters are situated at Mhsien. When the right wing was heavily engaged, affairs became so serious that General Wei retreated out of Mhsien. At that time Chengshien being in danger, it was reported outside that Chengchow had been taken. However, as soon as Teng Feng and Linque were recaptured, the danger to the right wing was passed.

The Left Wing

On the left wing at Ching Tai Kuan, south-west of Hsien, General Sun's main body of about 50,000 men is divided into two armies advancing south. The first, advanced though Yungteh and captured Fanchang, and Hsien Yang, north of Hupeh. The other, proceeding by Nanyang and Sinyeh, south of Honan, engaged in several fierce battles. On the 4th and 5th inst. Fanchang and Kungshien were recaptured. The National army advanced to Laokow, north of Fanchang. General Sun's troops made a determined stand at Yungteh, north of Hupeh, and advanced no further, bringing up heavy artillery from the rear. It is expected that the next battle will be the decisive factor between the two armies.

The Front Line

When the National troops recaptured Fanchang and Kungshien, had been confirmed, the main body under Lin Chih, Hsiao Tso-yin and Chen Shing concentrated at Laokow, Anyang, 40 li distant from Yungteh, was selected as the front line.

Shanghai, Nov. 6.
The north-western troops who captured Sunyang, it has been confirmed, were those of Sun Liang-cheng and were those belonging to Cheng Tso-chung, while the army led by Hsien Yang.

Terms of Acceptance

Taiyuan, Nov. 6.
Yen Hsi-shan will use force to enforce peace in the north-west. An emissary has been despatched with terms for acceptance.

The Ironsides

Having been intercepted and attacked by General Ho Chien on the south-west of Hunan, the Ironsides find great difficulty to maintain their present position for lack of food supplies, besides continuous desertions.

In order to meet the demands of food supplies, General Chang Kai-shek is now forced to advance from Lin Kai to Yee Ning with Kwelin as his objective.

Kwelin is now well guarded by the entire Division of General Yang Teng-fai with approaching reinforcements of the 15th, the 60th and the 62nd Divisions under Generals Wong Kun, Tsoi Tung-kai and Heung Hon-ping respectively.

Brigadier General Wong Chat-man of the 63rd Division under General Li Yang-king upon arrival at Wuchow immediately left for Meng Shan with his troops. The troops of the 59th Division under General Yu Hon-mo reached Kung Cheng on the West River, on November 5.

Loyal Troops

The Kwangsi loyal troops are sufficient to oppose the invaders, whose number, it is understood, is not large. But, with a view to exterminating all the Ironside remnants, a large body of troops has been transferred up river to besiege them so as not to let them become bandits.

Ironsides to be Surrounded?

Saturday.
With a view speedily to round up the rebels, C-in-C. Chan Chat-tong has telegraphically communicated with General Ho Chien, Hunan, and General Mao Kang-chang, Kweichow, a plan to surround the rebels by the troops of the four provinces.

Feng's Troops in Disorder

Hankow, Saturday.
The officer in charge of Aviation at Wuhan, on the 6th inst. flew to the front to make an inspection of the front. He reports as follows:

1. General Feng's troops are retreating in disorder, taking their heavy transport by Hsien to the west.

2. In the direction of Penghia Bridge the troops in their westward retreat are destroying the floating bridges.

3. At Hweliangchen were concentrated numerous troops, who were dispersed by bombs.

People Robbed

Yungyang, Saturday.
General Liu's troops, belonging to Feng, forced the people in the last few days to hand over a large quantity of food, and $300,000. Three days after they retreated westward.

Hatchow, Saturday.
According to a high official, the troops at Anking were induced to turn against the Central Government. One brigade was disbanded by troops of the 6th Army, and troops have been dispatched to deal with the rest.—Canton News Agency.

The Front Line

Shanghai, Saturday.
Reuter's Hankow correspondent states that according to Chang Chih-chung who returned from the front by aeroplane on Thursday evening, Chiang Kai-shek has moved his headquarters from Hsuehchow to Yuchow. He will personally direct the front line operations.

As far as can be ascertained the main line of the Kuominchun forces extends from Lushan through Paofeng and Klahsien to Mhsien, while strong forces are concentrated at Nanyang and Yungyang with Chumai and Laohokow the respective objectives.

A number of troops of the Fifth Division arrived at Hankow from the front and were transferred to Wuchang for "training purposes."

It is learned that the Generalissimo's own armies, who hitherto have been held in reserve, are now being "drafted" into the front line.

Later.

It is officially claimed that Mhsien has been recaptured from the Kuominchun by Chiang Kai-shek's crack personal forces, comprising the First and Second Divisions, and the "victors" are now driving on to Tengsheng.

It is stated that the fighting at Mhsien was of a very fierce nature, and corpses are heaped "mountains high."

Fierce Fighting

Shanghai, Saturday.
Hankow is again witnessing feverish troop movements to-day, and every available man is being withdrawn from the Hupeh garrison towns, and being sent up the Kin-Han Railway. The situation at the front is evidently serious.

Independent sources now deny the capture of Mhsien, stating that the Kuominchun are still holding the city, despite repeated onslaughts by Government crack divisions. The losses on both sides are reported to be enormous.

Generalissimo's Return

Hankow, Yesterday.
The Generalissimo returned here quietly by train to-day, and is at present in conference with local commanders.

It is stated that he is ready to return to the front by plane at a moment's notice, should the situation need his presence. Owing to a strict censorship, very little is known about the situation in Honan, but very fierce fighting has so far been going on in the Mhsien vicinity.

Situation Critical

Hankow, Yesterday.
It is learned that the Eighth Division, which was despatched from here yesterday, is proceeding to Sinyeh to reinforce the National troops in the Mhsien battle. Meanwhile, Hsiao Tso-yin's Thirteenth Division, which hitherto has been at Sinyehchow, was also ordered to the front. Hence the situation is deemed critical. Wuhan is now practically denuded of troops, Whampoa cadets forming the only complete unit here.

Representatives of the Szechuanites, Liu Hsiang, Teng Shih-hou and Kuo Ju-tung, have arrived at Hankow and are petitioning for finances and ammunition so as to attack the Kuominchun in the rear from Szechuan into Shensi.

Despite the reports that Yen Hsi-shan's acceptance of the Vice-Commandership of the National forces, it is independently learned that he has persistently refused to interview Ho Ying-chin, pleading cholera, and the latter was forced to return baffled to Chengchow.—Reuter.

"A FAMOUS FARCE"

Canton A.T.S. To Put On Play This Month

[From Our Own Correspondent.]
Canton, Saturday.
The Canton Amateur Theatrical Society are putting on "Lord Richard In The Pantry" on November 22, and in spite of the difficulty of the production it is confidently expected that the show will be a success.

This is the first production of the Season and there will probably be two further plays produced in February and April.

The Cast

The cast for "Lord Richard In The Pantry" is as follows:—
Lord Richard Sandridge.—Mr. Galloway.

Arthur Thompson (his secretary).—Mr. F. E. W. Lammert.
Captain "Tubby" Bannister.—Mr. H. G. Eales.

Carter (Lord Richard's Manservant).—Mr. W. R. Farmer.
Detective-Inspector Brown (Scotland Yard).—Mr. J. H. Ferguson.
Evelyn Lovejoy.—Mrs. R. T. O. Lammert.

Lady Violet Elliot.—Mrs. M. A. Annett.
Cook (Servant of Mrs. Gayford).—Mrs. T. Brameld.

Rose (Servant of Mrs. Gayford).—Miss Louise Hogg.
Bryan (Servant of Mrs. Gayford).—Mrs. Moss.

Gladya (Servant of Mrs. Gayford).—Miss Gladya Lee.
Sylvia Gayford (a widow).—Mrs. E. R. Hill.

A Lively Play

The play centres round Lord Richard Sandridge, a lively, vital and irresponsible character, and in this part Mr. Galloway is doing very well indeed. It is by no means an easy character to play, in fact a high class of acting is required to keep the character from becoming foolish and absurd, rather than irresponsible and attractive.

The other male characters are all unimportant, with the exception of Carter, who as Lord Richard's confidential manservant is very amusing and full of character. Mr. Farmer is shaping quite well.

Mrs. Hill Leading Lady
Mrs. Hill in the part of Mrs. Gayford, the leading lady, is brilliant; not only does she naturally fit the part of "une dame du monde chic" but her acting is superb and her well-trained voice clear and carrying. Her acting alone will make the play worth seeing.

The Cook is in many ways a better character than Mrs. Gayford, full of temperament, vulgarities that make one rock with laughter, and personality. It is not an easy part to act by any means and Mrs. Brameld must be congratulated on the way she is interpreting it.

A Quaint Character
Mrs. Lammert is extraordinarily good in the part of Evelyn Lovejoy, a rather "quaint" character, and her love scene with Lord Richard is a fully amusing.

The other female characters are small. Mrs. Annett does. Lady Violet Elliot very well, and Miss Lee an amusing "tough little twosome."

Mr. C. M. D. D. Wolf, who has produced several successful plays in the past, is again producing this piece, and as usual is showing great insight regarding the various characters.

BROADCASTING

Excellent Programmes For Hong Kong

Below we publish the announcements made at the Poppy Day Concert broadcast on Saturday night from the Government Radio Studio for the benefit of readers who had not the opportunity of listening in.

The Broadcasting Committee desire to extend their hearty thanks to all those who have assisted at concerts since the opening of the Studio. They are still anxious to secure all possible talent and hope that anyone who can contribute musical items or short interesting talks on any subject, will communicate with the Programme Secretary.

A Useful Purpose
The commercial news broadcast daily would seem to be serving a useful purpose, and is being taken in at Canton and various coast ports.

Church Services on Sundays will continue to be a leading feature of our programme, and efforts are being made to broadcast at hours suitable to all.

To-day, Armistice Day, the ceremony at the Cenotaph will be broadcast.

Matilda Hospital
As you are no doubt aware the Matilda Hospital at the Peak has for some time past been receiving our programme, and the following letter from Doctor J. Howard Montgomery, resident surgeon of the Matilda Hospital, cannot but prove of particular interest. He writes:—

"As you know Radio has been installed in the Matilda Hospital for a period of six months, so that we have had a good opportunity to test its value and efficiency.

"I have no hesitation in saying that from a Hospital point of view it has been an unqualified success. The patients enjoy it more than anything else in the way of recreation and amusement, and they look forward eagerly to the times when music is available. The Church Services are particularly appreciated, and come through very well indeed. It is, for Hospitals a great acquisition, and relieves the tedious hours and the monotony of lying in bed during a long illness, and is a source of much enjoyment, from which without Radio they would be cut off. I hope it will be adopted for all Hospitals in the Colony, and that all the sick may have the benefits that are now available through Radio.

"With the thanks of the Staff and numerous Patients to those who have been helping to bring

MR. LAL SINGH

Welcomed By Local Indian Cricketers

A reception was given in honour of Mr. Lal Singh, one of the Malayan cricketers, by the Sindhi Merchants' Cricket team, at their club room in China Building yesterday. Messrs. A. S. A. Jansen and Evan Wong were also among the guests.

Mr. Melwani, in welcoming the guest of honour, said that it was a great pleasure to them to have a compatriot in their midst. Mr. Lal Singh had already justified his inclusion in the Malayan team, and he was only echoing the sentiments of those present when he hoped that Mr. Lal Singh would also win distinction in Malaya's match against Hong Kong.

Mr. Lal Singh suitably replied, thanking Mr. Melwani for his kind wishes. He said that it was a great honour to him to attend the function, and he would long treasure the memory of that pleasant gathering.

R.A.S.C. v. LANE, CRAWFORD'S

After an evenly contested game, Messrs. Lane, Crawford's XI succeeded in forcing a draw with the R.A.S.C. on the latter's ground at Sookmoo on Saturday.

The R.A.S.C. batted first and the first wicket fell with an easy catch brought off by F. E. Skinner. After this the batsmen settled down and substantial scores were put up. L/Cpl. Lyons retiring with 50 runs to his credit.

The R.A.S.C. finally declared with 157 runs for six wickets. Lane, Crawford's XI also made a good stand against very hard and fast bowling. Skinner and Ogley placed several balls over the boundary in succession. The failing light compelled them to declare with 60 runs for four wickets. The scores were:—

KOWLOON 2nd XI v. POLICE R.C.

The Kowloon C.C. 2nd XI entertained and defeated the Police Recreation Club at Kowloon on Saturday. The Kowloon C.C. batted first and after a good exhibition of batmanship by several of the team, declared with 151 runs for six wickets down. The Police started badly and could not settle down to the fast bowling and fielding of their opponents. The light towards the end of the game was bad, and this probably accounted for the easy despatch of the batsmen. They were dismissed for 81 runs.

TEST CRICKET

CONFIDENCE IN YOUNGER GENERATION

AN EXPERT'S VIEWS

At the end of that splendid match at Scarborough between the South Africans and Mr. C. I. Thornton's XI, the band played Auld Lang Syne, that being the nearest they could get on the spur of the moment to Will Ye No' Come Back Again. Trombone and drum were saying publicly what Lord Hawke had said more or less privately after his luncheon party, writes Mr. H. D. G. Leveson-Gower, chairman of the Selection Committee for the past series of Tests.

No jollier party of cricketers than H. G. Deane and his schoolboys has ever toured this country. I do not believe that there had been the beginning of a complaint on any ground that they have visited. Deane does not know the meaning of the word, and his attitude of mind affects his opponents as well as the members of the team he commands.

A Captain Indeed

As I look back over the events of the past three months the thing that sticks out in my mind is Deane's captaincy. Of course, he was lucky in his opportunity. His men believe in him.

I daresay, they were sometimes puzzled, as I confess that I, sitting in the pavilion, was puzzled, by his tactics out in the middle. That they acted on the principle adopted by the King's son in Stevenson's fable, who said, "My father knows what he is doing and when the teeth are shut the tongue is at home."

His tactics may have been partly camouflage. Something had to be done to conceal the weakness of his bowling. But there was no camouflage about his readiness to sacrifice his own play to the interests of his side.

Great Move

I shall cite only one instance to prove my point. In the Oval Test match the start of the South African innings presaged disaster. When the third wicket fell a few minutes before lunch time Deane altered his order, and went in himself to protect a comparatively inexperienced cricketer from the risk of losing his wicket.

I do not suppose that any incident of the past season has given deeper or more widespread satisfaction than Deane's subsequent personal triumph.

He made 93 himself, and I shall hold the opinion that Taylor, who passed the 100, will allow that while he was digging himself in he owed a lot to the inspiration that came down the pitch from the other end.

Deane came over with an exceptionally young side which needed making. Of course the natural capacity was there. And, of course, his youths have done their bit in the development of it. He goes back knowing that he has given them all the assistance to self-education which can come from wise, tactful, masterful leadership.

The Fielding Filipp

To make his reward complete it only needs that the South African Cricket Association should make him chief selector of the team which they are due to send to Australia in 1931.

If by that time they can discover two really good opening bowlers, or even one, the Australians will have to sit up and take notice, for McMillan is fairly on the way to push himself into the Faulkner-Freeman class of slow bowlers, and fielding such as the South Africans have shown us adds 35 per cent. worth of ordinary up-and-down bowling.

Cameron would, I take it, be first choice to-day as the wicket-keeper in a world's eleven. Prophecy about the future of young batsmen is a risky business. But I think it is safe to suggest that Owen-Smith, Christie and Mitchell are destined between them to provide South Africa with at least two match winners, men who not only get lots of runs themselves but make run-getting easy for those who come in after them.

During the early part of their tour the South Africans did rather badly. When they went to Birmingham for the first Test match their one first-rate performance was their victory over Middlesex.

But that Birmingham match was an eye-opener. The outstanding fact was, account for it how you will, that they had first innings advantage from a team whose constituents were, so far as circumstances allowed, the men who had a few months earlier beaten the Australians in Australia.

In The Balance

At Lord's England would have won in the three days if they had taken their chances. As it was, they had an overwhelming advantage on paper when bad light stopped play. But it is noteworthy that the breakdown in their batting did not occur until they had assured themselves of a draw.

At Leeds England won. There was a horrid moment when it was more than a shade of odds South Africa would make themselves one up with two to play. The result at Manchester was more in accord with anticipations formed in May, and at the Oval there never was more than a remote prospect of a finish.

Quite a number of people thought, that for the Oval match the Selection Committee might have rested some of the old stagers and experimented with young ones of promise. I shall not be violating the "official secrets act" if I say that the Selection Committee had several good reasons for putting into the field what was, in their opinion, the strongest team available at the moment.

"Strongest Ever"

One of my colleagues is a classical scholar. He said that, according to the Latin grammar, experiments are properly made in a vile or cheap body.

To have held the South Africans cheap would have been to disregard the significance of established facts. It would also have been an act of grave discourtesy to guests incapable of retaliating in kind.

Finally, it was no certainty that the information provided by our experiment would be trustworthy or valuable to those who will select the England teams next summer. Their chief trouble may be not to decide which of our younger players should be chosen, but to satisfy themselves on the question which, if any, of the veterans no longer chooses himself.

I shall conclude by suggesting that next year we shall, if things go right, have as strong a team as any that has ever represented England. I am not sure that I am acting wisely by putting it up to the constituents of it to justify my opinion. It may make them nervous.

However, between now and next June there will be plenty of pessimists to try infect them with the inferiority complex and so undo any harm I may have done.

THE LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET

PREMIER ON THE "DREADED FROWN OF THE LEAGUE"

RUSSIA AND WORLD PEACE

London, Later.

There were two distinctive features of the Lord Mayor's banquet at the Guildhall.

The first was the fact that most of the speakers had not attended the banquet before. The second was that most of the Cabinet Ministers were wearing simple evening dress instead of leave dress. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who given a great ovation, reviewed the Government's efforts to effect an international understanding. He paid tribute to Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand and also to the League of Nations, whose "frown would soon be more dreaded than a nation's arms."

He said that he wanted to get Russia to help to bring Europe into a unity of peace and declared that India was perhaps the most important issue before the Empire. The purpose of the Viceroy's recent announcement was in no wise to alter the existing policy but to revive a spirit of mutual understanding.

Mr. MacDonald explained that he visited President Hoover because he believed in personal contact. The result would be a Naval Conference in London, at which he ventured to say the question of freedom of the seas would not be raised. He hoped most sincerely that a Dominions Economic Conference could be held, as Mr. Mackenzie King wished, in Ottawa.—Reuter.

KIDNAPPING GANG

Russian Arrested in Tientsin

Tientsin, Saturday.

There is at present no further news of Mr. Aaron Brenner, a partner in the fur firm of Brenner Brothers, of Tientsin and New York who was the victim of a daring kidnapping on Thursday night.

The exact details of the outrage are not yet established, but the first indication came in the shape of a letter handed in at the Kiessling Cafe, stating that Mr. Brenner had been kidnapped.

Written in the victim's hand, the letter stated that the gang demanded $500,000, and outlined the arrangements for payment, and release.

The police have arrested a Russian woman recently seen in the company of Mr. Brenner, and it is suspected that the perpetrators are a large gang of well-dressed Russians recently operating in Russia and Harbin.

Reports yesterday indicated that the ransom had been reduced to $300,000, and even the name of the person the money may be entrusted to is mentioned. American Consular officials are co-operating with the police of both the Concession and special areas in an attempt to trace Mr. Brenner. The whereabouts of Lo Chen, Jardine's compradore, who was recently abducted by three kidnapers, remains obscure.—Reuter.

CLEVER KIDDIES

Miss O'Keefe's Dances Applauded

Chocolates for the kiddies and flowers for the more grown-up pupils of Miss Daisy O'Keefe were passed up in profusion at the Theatre Royal on Saturday night, at the conclusion of the second display of dancing arranged by Miss O'Keefe. Very favourable comment was evoked as was the case at the first performance and high tribute was paid both to teacher and pupils; to single out the name of any one for special merit—among so many who were so good—would, perhaps, be unfair.

Police Break The Ice At Kowloon

ATHLETIC IN WINNING VEIN

Club Go Down To R.A.

Although Kowloon still hold the proud distinction of never having been beaten this season, they came very near to it on Saturday when they drew level with the Police team after being two goals down. Athletic made the pace against the Navy and their brilliant inside left, Suen Kam-shun scored the "hat trick." St. Joseph's put up a remarkable display against the Somersets, and with a stroke of luck would have drawn level in the closing stages. South China again demonstrated that they are far below last season's form and were compelled to acknowledge defeat by two clear goals. The Junior matches went much as expected, but St. Joseph's surprised by taking a point from the Somersets in a hard game. South China "A" improved their goal average by scoring ten goals without response against the Club.

Division I

SOUTH CHINA v. K.O.S.B.

Changed Team Brings Borderers Victory.

Played at Caroline Hill. The Borderers played Cook at centre forward, while Reeves dropped to his old position at back. Without being a very interesting match, the Borderers gave full value for the points, and would have obtained several more goals but for the splendid goalkeeping of Pau Kaping. Lieut. Seal, R.A., lined the teams out as under:—

South China:—Pau Kaping; Lee Tin-sang, Lau Mau; Leung Wing-tak, Wong Mee-shun, Leung Wing-chiu; Cheung Shui-hong, Chu Kwok-luen, Yee Cheuk-wa, Ng Po-ku and Ip Pak-wah.
K.O.S.B.:—Shears; Gardner; Reeves; Everest, Davey, Skiggs; Torrie, Stock, Cook, McGlinchey and Alexander.

Visitors Score from Penalty
The Borderers set a brisk pace straight from the start, and Cook was soon in the picture with some aggressive rushes which kept the home backs on the alert. Play had only been in progress a couple of minutes when McGlinchey gave Pau a hot drive to stop right in the far corner of the goal. A moment later the goalie was compelled to dive full length to collect a fine drive from Alexander. The South China forwards were in nothing like their usual buoyant mood and were well held by the visiting half backs. They came very near to an early success however when the right wing broke away, but Reeves tackled Chu Kwok-luen in great style as the latter was about to shoot. The Borderers continued to have the better of the exchanges, Pau being constantly called upon to clear from the persistent attacks of the opposing forwards. After a series of rushes through the centre, in which Cook excelled, the visitors were awarded a penalty and Everest gave Pau no possible chance with a lightning drive. This reverse failed to give South China the required stimulus, and their play was still far below standard. Lau Mau played a sterling game in the full back division while Wong Mee-shun was in good form at centre half, but the other members of the team were rarely in the picture, with the exception of Ip Pak-wah, who occasionally contributed a run and centre in keeping with his usual style. The whistle came into use rather frequently just before the interval, one foul on Davey being a particularly glaring case.

Doubtful Tactics by Chinese
The game continued to favour the visitors who were playing a bustling game interspersed with plenty of set pieces. McGlinchey and Alexander were particularly effective, some of their runs and dribbles.

South China continued to play a very poor game, and their play was still far below standard. Lau Mau played a sterling game in the full back division while Wong Mee-shun was in good form at centre half, but the other members of the team were rarely in the picture, with the exception of Ip Pak-wah, who occasionally contributed a run and centre in keeping with his usual style. The whistle came into use rather frequently just before the interval, one foul on Davey being a particularly glaring case.

while Cook was a thrustful leader of the attack. Play was rather featureless for a time, and a little feeling was creeping into the proceedings owing to some rather unsportsmanlike tactics on the part of the home team. Torrie struck the crossbar with a smart effort, while Stock worked like a Trojan for a further goal. After a struggle in the goalmouth the ball came out to Torrie, who shot without hesitation into the top left hand corner of the net. Closing exchanges saw South China a little more in the picture, but Reeves and Gardner stood firm. Wong Mee-shun had bad luck with a shot which struck the crossbar from a free kick. The final whistle blew with the Borderers again forcing the pace.

Result:—
South China 0
K.O.S.B. 2

Comment
The game could hardly be called a good one although the K.O.S.B. did all that was required of them. Cook's debut in the centre forward position was watched with interest, and although he had few opportunities to shine individually, he was always pushing forward and was a veritable glutton for work. His inclusion should be an asset to the forward line. Gardner and Reeves were well equal to all the calls upon them, while Everest did great things against the nippy Ip Pak-wah. Of the forwards Alexander played his best game of the season, while Stock also gave an improved display. Torrie scored a really good goal but his other work was inclined to lack confidence. McGlinchey was, as usual, very sound, and contributed largely to the cohesion of the line.

South China were frankly most disappointing. There was little wrong with the defence, in fact Pau Kaping and Lau Mau each played a magnificent game. The forwards however were for the greater part of the game almost completely overshadowed by the visiting half backs, Ng Po-ku and Ip Pak-wah being the only two to show anything approaching their usual form.

CHINESE ATHLETIC v. NAVY

Hat Trick by Suen Kam-shun

Played at the Stadium this match resulted in a more or less easy win for the home team who scored three goals without response. The Navy suffered by the absence of Kernick, who has made his last appearance in the Colony. Sprattling was another figure to be sorely missed. The Athletic gave a polished display throughout and always had the game in hand. Teams were:—
Athletic:—Chan Sek-pui; Ng Kan-chun, Lai Yik-tat; Ho Chai-yin, Wong Shui-wah, Lam Yik-ying, Tso Kwai-shing, Li Hung-ching, Wong Pak-chung, Suen Kam-shun and Chan Kwong-ik.
Navy:—Jarvis; Spragg, Charley, Ching-shan, Dray, Lambert; Van

Tromp, Firth, Gould, Kennedy and Dickinson.

Navy Goalkeepers' Splendid Efforts

The Navy were the first to get into action, a smart movement by the left wing being cleverly held up by Ho Chai-yin. The latter set his forwards on the go for Suen to execute a perfect dribble and shoot just wide of the far upright. Off-side against Li Hung-ching spoiled another good opening a moment later. The Navy defence was having a gruelling time at this stage, and several corners were conceded, without result. Jarvis quickly proved his worth by making a series of capable saves from both the inside forwards, while his judgment of the wingers' centres was extremely sound. An isolated attack by the Navy was repelled without much difficulty, although Chan had to go full length on one occasion to divert a shot from Kennedy.

The Athletic took the lead when Suen and Chan literally walked their way through the opposition and the former found the net with a cleverly placed drive. Some brilliant saves by Jarvis were a noteworthy feature of the remainder of the opening half, while at the other end the Athletic rearguard were called into action to withstand a fierce rush by the visiting forwards.

Half-time:—

Navy On Defence

The pace began to tell upon the Navy after the resumption, and the Athletic proceeded to forge ahead in a manner which left very little doubt as to the ultimate result of the contest. Tso Kwai-shing earned enthusiastic applause by cleverly tricking two opponents and firing in a fierce drive which missed its billet by inches. After ten minutes play Suen again came through from Ho Chai-yin's pass and beat Jarvis from close range. The Navy put on another spurt and for a time it seemed as if they would surely open their account, but Ng Kam-chun and Lai Yik-tat covered each other with perfect understanding, while Chan made several clearances of a high order. Gould and Firth were both out of luck with shots which hit the woodwork, before the ball was worked to the other end, where Suen aroused intense enthusiasm by completing the hat trick with another surprise shot. Closing stages saw the home team content to hold their own and an interesting struggle terminated without further scoring.

Result:—
Athletic 3

Comment
The homesters were again at the top of their form and are proving more conclusively as the season progresses that they are as big a factor as ever in the League. Suen was of course the outstanding figure in a team of stars. Others worthy of special mention are Lai Yik-tat, Lam Yik-ying and Tso Kwai-shing. The latter was easily the fastest forward on the field. The Navy were beaten by a faster and cleverer side. They held on well at times, but the forwards rarely got going with any real attempt at constructive work. Outstanding players in the team were Jarvis, Spragg, Lambert, Van Tromp and Kennedy.

R.A. v. CLUB

Disappointing Game at Soekumpoo

The Club journeyed to Soekumpoo in confident expectations of gaining at least a point, but they failed in a most disheartening manner and finished up by being vanquished to the tune of two goals to nil.

Play never reached the standard one expects from first division football, but the Gunners were certainly full value for their success, their forwards being decidedly the better of two mediocre lines.

The teams took the field as follows:—
R.A.:—Fletcher; Oliver, Bacon; Oliver, Joyce, Gardner; Cotton, Gill, Allan, Jobe and Fredericks.
Club:—Rodgers; Holmes, Bishop, Gilchrist, Massey, Watson; Alexander, Reid, Goldman, Davis and Scott.

Club Miss in Goalmouth
The Gunners arrived rather late and started the game with only nine players. They were able to hold their own however until the arrival of the full complement, when they began to press strongly. Gill and Cotton made a very effective right wing, the former being invaluable by reason of his height and weight. Jobe was another forward to catch the eye in a line which started off in a really good style.

Play had not been in progress many minutes when the Club defence blundered, with the result that Allan went on the score from close range.

The Club retaliated through Alexander and Reid, but Bacon, who was making one of his too infrequent appearances for R.A., held them well in check. This player returned the ball to Fredericks who put it safely behind when a glorious opening presented itself.

The Club were really allowed to get within shooting distance of Fletcher, Joyce keeping a most effective eye on the movements of Goldman, who was also making his initial appearance of the season.

A fine run by Alexander was the precursor of an accurately placed centre which Davis missed in an inexplicable fashion.

The Gunners again advanced, and Gill scored a really fine goal with a low drive from long range.

Half-time:—

Easy Win For Gunners

There is little to be said for the remainder of the game. The Gunners continued to more than hold their own against a forward line which rarely looked like becoming really dangerous.

Fletcher was occasionally called upon however, chiefly in clearing shots and centres from Alexander, who was easily the most prominent of the quintette.

Several easy openings were missed by the home team before the referee brought to a finish a game which was not particularly exhilarating to watch.

Comment

The Gunners played a steady game without being in any way brilliant. Bacon did extremely well in the back division, while Joyce also shone in a strange position at centre half. Gill was easily the pick of the forward line, although Jobe and Allan were also quite useful.

The Club gave a most disappointing exhibition. To watch them it was difficult to realise that this was the team which had conquered the Athletic on their own ground and run the Borderers to a goal after being three down.

Goldman's return will probably strengthen the line once he gets into form. At present he is right off his usual game. Rodgers did well in goal against formidable odds, while Bishop, Gilchrist, Watson and Alexander were other players to impress.

SOMERSETS v. ST. JOSEPH'S

Splendid Display by Saints' Defence

Continuing to show vastly improved form the Saints gave their opponents a rare surprise in this match and with a little luck in the closing stages would have claimed a point. The game was a triumph for the St. Joseph's keeper, Rocha, who gave one of the finest exhibitions seen this season. Teams were lined out as under:—

Somersets:—Hall; Crawley, Hayward; Knapp, West, Harris; Rayson, Palmer, Guest, Bewley-Bull and Butcher.
St. Joseph's:—Rocha; Gomes, Hyder; O. Omar, Wright, Leonard, Wee Tong, L. Souza, Kilbride, Cobb and Jackson.

Referee:—L. S. B. A. Atkinson, R.N.

Soldiers Attack
Opening exchanges were contested at a brisk pace, with neither side gaining any appreciable advantage. Cobb was the first to put in a shot which Hall was only just able to reach.

The ball was quickly brought to the other end where Palmer had hard lines with a shot which travelled just over the crossbar. The Saints were kept well penned in their own half for a time, Gomes and Hyder defending very strongly, while Leonard was a tower of strength in the intermediate line.

Each time the Saints broke away they threatened danger, Jackson and Cobb each going very near from close in. The Somersets forced several corners towards the close of the half, but opportunities to open the score were not taken.

Rocha in Form

Butcher created an early thrill by taking the ball right down the left wing and cutting in with a lovely drive which Rocha did well to flat out. The same player rendered equally good service in clearing from Bewley-Bull and Rayson. Although doing practically all the offensive work, the soldiers were unable to round off their efforts, a faultless display by Gomes and Hyder being no small factor in their failure.

At length, after being well nigh rushed off their feet, the Saints conceded a penalty, and Knapp drove the ball into the net from the spot kick. There was very little further incident to record, although the losers came very close to equalising on several occasions just before the close.

An injury to Harris stopped play for a few minutes, but he was able to resume after attention.

Comment

Too much credit cannot be given to the St. Joseph's defenders. They came through a most trying ordeal with flying colours, and are to be congratulated on a most plucky exhibition.

The half backs were also well in the picture, Leonard being particularly effective on the left.

Of the forwards Cobb and Jackson were by far the most prominent, but Wee Tong also proved his worth on the opposite wing.

The Somersets as a whole gave rather a disappointing exhibition for a team holding their position in the league. Hayward was again a valuable asset to the defence, while all the halves worked with untiring zeal.

The continued absence of Baker led to a reshuffling of the forwards which did not tend to improve matters. Bewley-Bull plays better on the opposite wing than at inside left, while Rayson was rather out of his element on the right wing. Palmer was the best of the line, some of his work being deserving of a better fate.

KOWLOON v. POLICE

Police in Great Form

The Police have been noteworthy in the past for the football surprises they spring upon the public from time to time. The match against Kowloon was no exception, for, after having played five matches without a point, they proceeded to force a draw with a team, whose performances up to date have been unexcelled.

Kowloon made the fatal mistake of taking things too much for granted, and it is not until they were a couple of goals in arrears that they appeared to realise the precarious condition of the game and proceeded to make up for lost time.

Teams were:—
Kowloon:—Angus, Gillott, Pile; Hedley, Downman, Bliss; Pile, Gallagher, Simpson, McKelvie and Miles.

Police:—Estall; Wynne, Howarth; McGreavy, Hudson, Jessop; Gowans, Fraser, Johnson, Valentine and Bentley.

Outstanding Play by T. Pile
The home team were the first to threaten, Pile forcing a couple of unproductive corners in the first few minutes.

At the other end Angus was forced to leave his charge in order to effect a clearance from Johnson. Kowloon brought the ball back for Estall to bring off a good save from Gallagher.

There was no lack of interest at this stage, both goals being visited in quick succession by two thrustful set of forwards.

The respective goalkeepers were almost continually in action and both did well in clearing some enterprising shots. Pile was the most attractive of the home forwards, some of his runs and centres being very cleverly conceived. Simpson was also giving an improved display and deserved to score on more than one occasion.

At the Police end, Valentine sent Bentley away with a lovely pass, and from the resultant centre Johnson put the ball in, only to be penalised for handling. Exchanges continued to rule even and there was an abundance of incident. Estall brought off a splendid save from a header by Miles, and this was quickly followed by the opening goal, Johnson putting the visitors one up from Bentley's centre.

This reverse seemed to take the wind out of Kowloon's sails, and for a time they were obliged to be content with playing second fiddle while Police forged ahead with determined attacks. Nothing further was scored prior to the half time whistle however.

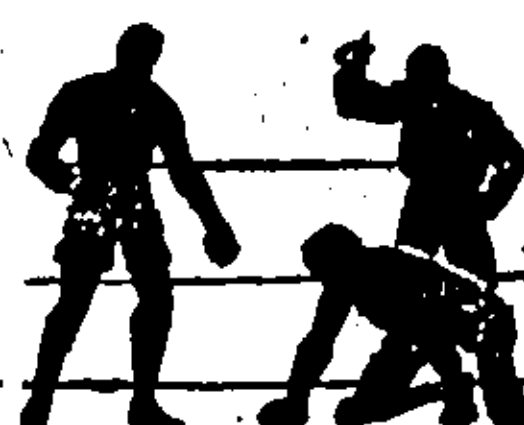

Half-time:—

Kowloon Lucky to Draw
Valentine made a gallant effort to break through, straight from the start, but was crowded out. A blunder in the home defence then put Gowans in a perfect position for increasing the score, but off-side relieved the tension. The Police were not to be denied however, and the home supporters received a further shock when Valentine finished a great run by putting the ball well out of Angus' reach.

Kowloon pulled themselves together at this stage and began to set their house in order in earnest. Estall was quickly called upon and the whole Police defence were kept on the go, withstanding some finely executed attacks. Wynne and Howarth proved very safe however and kept the invaders at bay until Gallagher netted from Miles' centre.

Kowloon now made desperate efforts to obtain the equaliser and excitement ruled high when Miles lobbed the ball neatly past Estall from Pile's centre. The closing minutes were full of ex-

Comment

It was an excellent game from the onlooker's point of view. The Police did remarkably well and if they can continue this form will soon draw away from the foot of the table.

Estall did excellent work in the opening half, but was inclined to waver towards the finish. Wynne and Howarth showed good understanding at back, while McGreavey was the best of the middle line. Valentine was by far the best of the vanguard, but Johnson and Henley also played a worthy part in the struggle.

Kowloon were probably feeling a bit stale after their terrific efforts last week. There was little matter with the defence however, Gillot being again at the top of his form. Dowman impressed in a clever half back line, while Gallagher and McKelvie shone in a forward line which was a trifle below form.

SOUTH CHINA "B" v. K.O.S.B.

Borderers Continue to Win

In spite of the loss of Cook, who was assisting the first team, the Borderers had no difficulty in recording another victory and adding a further six goals to their already large average.

Stevens opened the scoring with a lovely drive, after good work by Bird, and the latter added a further point a few moments later.

Shak Tak-on reduced the lead prior to the interval. The concluding half was an even more one-sided affair. The ball was rarely out of the South China half of the field, and goals by Crawley (2), Rhodes and Stevens sent the Borderers back to Sun Wan in the best of spirits.

UNIVERSITY v. R.A.M.C.

Close Match at Happy Valley.

The Medicals were a man short for this match at Happy Valley, and went down to the University by the odd goal in three.

S. L. Wong opened the scoring for the University and a further goal was added by L. Oppenheim prior to the change of ends.

The Medicals played better after the breather, and after a nice goal by Dodson, it looked as though they might still pull the game out of the fire.

After their surprise victory over the Borderers on Wednesday last it was confidently expected that the Somerset would romp home against the Saints, but contrary to expectations the Saints managed to snatch a point, and, what is more, deserved to win.
